CAMPUS VIEWS

After a long dormant period, Maryland has awakened to a renewed growth, inspiring in itself, and is progressing along a tremendous plan of construction. A new system of concrete roads and walks has been installed. Two new buildings have been completed, and more are to follow. The campus has been graded and adorned with the most beautiful of shrubs. These finishing touches, coupled with the graceful beauty and majesty that time alone can add, have succeeded in making Maryland a more fitting setting for the development of the best in womanhood and manhood for the state.

ADMINISTRATION

It has long been the object of the University of Maryland to build strong bodies along with strong minds, and to combine the two with self-responsibility. This object has been emphasized through the three stages of the institution—The Maryland Agricultural College, Maryland
State, and The University of Maryland —and never has there been friction between the faculty and the athletic department. The successful results of this policy are evidenced by Maryland's high scholastic rating and also by its athletic prowess.

Senior Class History

Our class history begins and ends like any other class history—first with our hardships as rats and rabbits, and lastly with expressions of pride and sorrow at our graduation from college.

There are, however, events and peculiar traits which make our class different from other classes. We came through our freshman instruction course much better qualified to fulfill our position as teachers when sophomores. As Juniors and Seniors we feel that we have been as dignified and serious-minded as is expected of such students. Then, too, we have furnished the school with another element in the form of the Simp Simmons-Walker Hale, Empty Loane-Weller Holloway, Bob Simmons-Bob Wick combinations.

Our contribution to both Freshman and Varsity teams has been more than generous, and now in our Senior year we have seen our Football team win over Yale, Hopkins, and Virginia among other rivals.

We have also had our share of the social life of the University. A Freshman Frolic, three class proms, and the Junior-Senior German have found a place on our calendar. We have done our share of hounding, too, and yet have not lost sight of our real goal, scholarship.

The Class of Twenty-Nine feels itself to be a relic of an old school in a new and much changed one. So many changes have come about since our Freshman year, that those who come after us could never realize what Maryland was a few years ago. In our first year the new dining hall was built, in our second year, a new President, Dr. Pearson, came to the University, and real work on improving the campus began. With our Junior year the whole system of roads, shrubs, walks, and trees was entirely changed. Many members of the faculty have gone and been replaced by new ones. The University of Maryland is becoming a different, more progressive, and better known school.

Now, in our last year of college life, we realize that our childhood dreams were not exaggerated, and it is with regret that we leave.

Junior Class History

Each of our college years has had at least one outstanding event that remains fixed in our minds and which is very dear to us in our memories.

In our freshman year we endured all the afflictions cast upon us and bore them bravely. But we did not realize the full extent of our unimportance, and were happy and carefree in our oblivion. Our important events that year were: The Frolic, Prom, and last but not least the rules inflicted upon us by the Sophomores.

The sophomore year is supposed to be one of sophistication or pseudo-sophistication. At least we rose a little in importance in our own estimation. We were very proud of our Prom that year, for by making it formal we were able to add a little dignity to the affair and to establish a precedent for the coming sophomore proms.

This year we also began to take a more active part in student affairs. We were well represented on the varsity teams, held offices of some importance and received many honors.

Now, our Junior Year!—the year that we had looked forward to for some time—the year that would really be ours. And we have not been disappointed. The Prom, the outstanding event of the year, merited the importance attributed to it. It was a dance to be proud of and was the culmination of our greatest hopes, for it was one of the best Proms in the history of any Junior class.

What a thrill for us all when the varsity basket-ball team came out on the floor composed of practically all nineteen-thirty men! Truly we were justly proud of them.

We continued to add honors to the ones we had received previously and became more and more active in student affairs. May we continue in the same way next year—our last one—when we shall become Seniors.

HARRY WILSON—A popular Sigma Phi Sigma, and also a great Lacrosse player.

JOHN McDONALD—Director of the Glee Club, a bulwark in football, a first string track man, and president of Delta Sigma Phi.

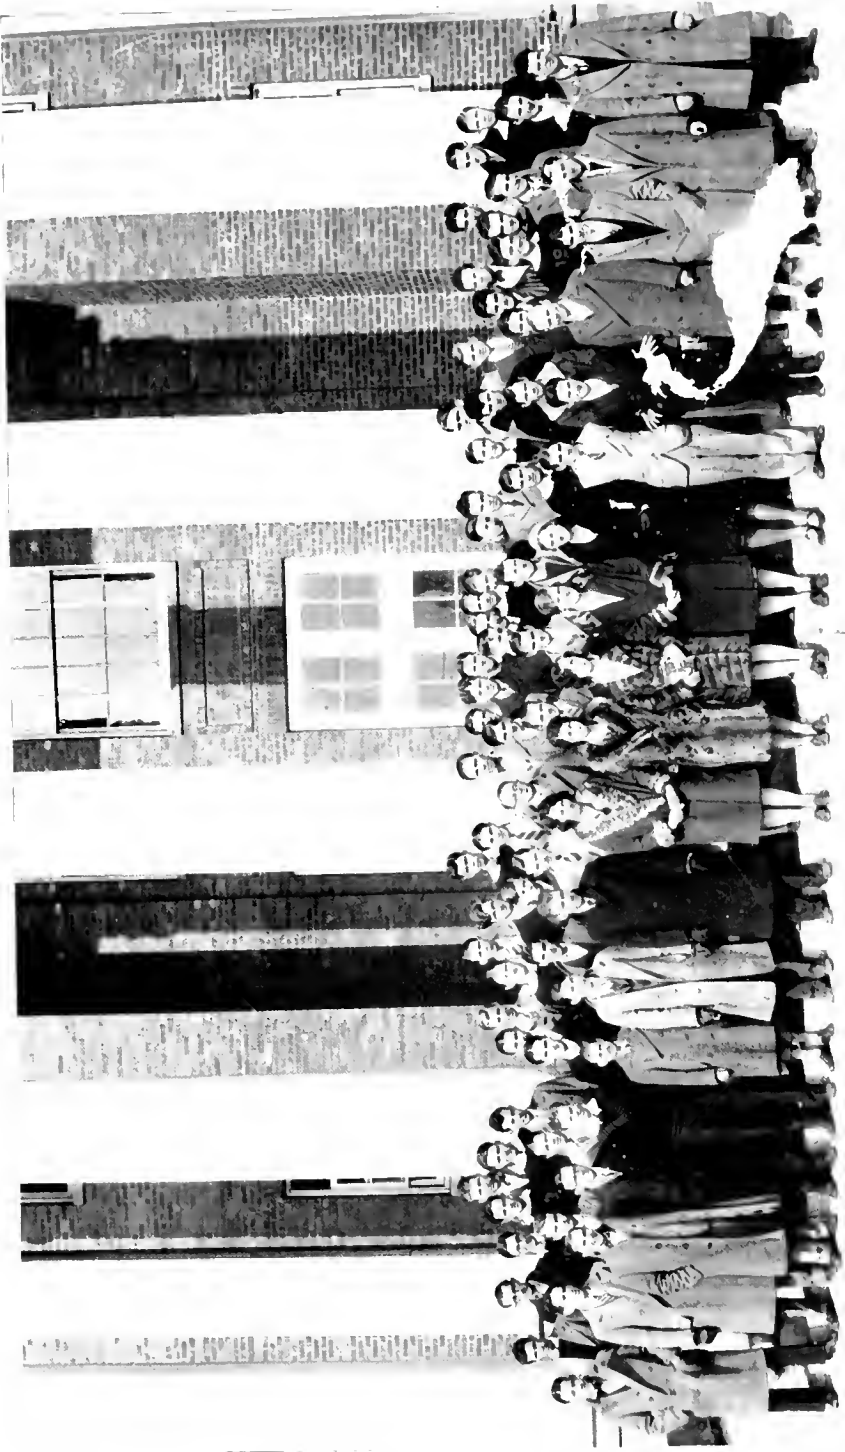

ISABEL BEWICK—An outstanding Kappa Xi who is Secretary-elect of the Student Assembly, and Girls' Representative to the Executive Council.

ROBERT HEALY—A big office-holder and a member of Nu Sigma Omicron.

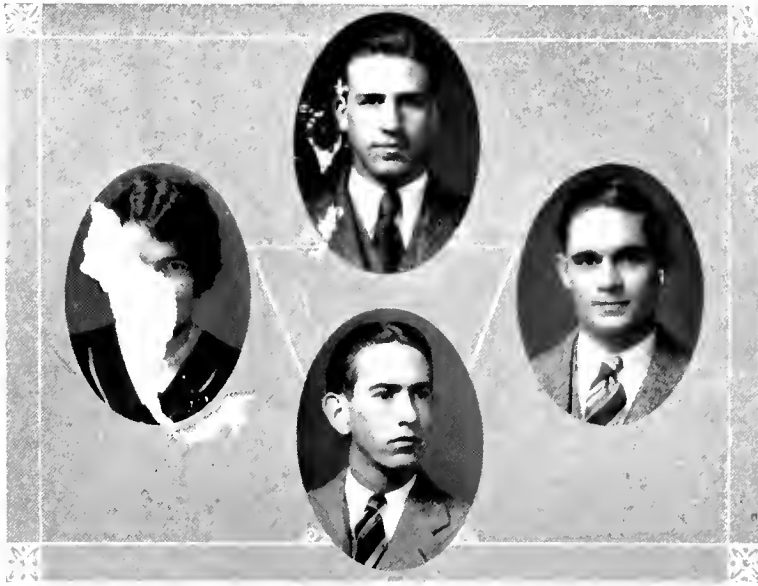

ALBERT HEAGY—President of the Class of 1930, and a Sigma Nu.

JOHN O'NEIL—A Phi Sig and President-elect of the Student Assembly.

Sophomore Class History

Early in September, 1927, the class of '31 began to get its first glimpse of college life. Registration over, the class was on its way to four glorious years at the University.

The first event of the social calendar for us was the President's reception to which every Freshman received a cordial invitation. It was the first opportunity the rats and rabbits had to see each other collectively, and it is doubtful if it was the rats or the rabbits who were more embarrassed as the long line of rats filed down the line stammering their respective names. Introductions were over at last and the dance began.

It did not require much time for the Sophomores to get acquainted with their special charges, the rats and rabbits. All high school superiority fled before that imposing group. Numerous changes were noticeable—rat caps appeared, a respectful manner was apparent, and clashing colored umbrellas were shamefully exhibited.

Soon, however, a more normal state of affairs prevailed and we settled to work.

Early in the year the class was organized and permanent officers were elected.

A real feature of the year was the Freshman Frolic, given and accepted with enthusiasm. Later, in April, the Freshman Prom was held (of which everyone spoke in complimentary tones). Both affairs were unusually successful.

The members of the class showed themselves to be good scholars, good athletes, and good friends. When June came around, everyone agreed that it had been a good year in every respect. We all bid dear old Maryland a sad adieu and departed much the wiser for our year's experience at the University. Officers for the year were: Warren Rabbitt, President; John LeRoy, Vice-President; Joy Linton, Secretary and Elizabeth Brunner, Historian. The Representatives to the Student Council are: Willis Frazier and Jane Hammack.

The class of '31 returned to the University in September with pleasant memories of their Freshman year and with the determination to make the most of their Sophomore year.

As usual the first business of the class was to see that the new Freshmen were properly oriented. With this idea in view a Vigilance Committee was appointed to make rat rules and to see that they were abided by. The rabbits were taken care of in a similar way. Sophomores are supposed to be naturally hard-headed and hard-hearted, and this class was no exception. Poor Freshmen!

From the first it was apparent that there was good athletic material in the class of '31. Freshman football showed promising men, as did the lacrosse, basket-ball and track teams. Varsity basket-ball gained three men from the sophomores and lacrosse six. Some of the most outstanding men of the class are: LeRoy, Deckman, Pitzer, Rabbitt, Gaylor, Fisher, Cohen, Kay, Deer, and Hendrickson.

Coeds were also interested in sports and a promising Sophomore team played six games during basket-ball season. Maryland's skill in rifle work is well known. Several of the Sophomore girls were on the varsity rifle team. The following is a list of the girls whose ability in sports is recognized: Elgar Jones, Miriam Lloyd, Marie Webster, Phyllis Oberlin, Martha Ross Temple, Christine Simmonds, Reba Ensor, Margaret McGarvey, and Eleanor Baumel.

A class history would be incomplete without mention of the annual Promenade. Early in the fall of 1928 a Sophomore Prom Committee was appointed with Warren Rabbitt as chairman. Invitations were sent to all members of the faculty and to all upperclassmen. The affair was formal without programs, thus permitting a stag line—duly appreciated by the coeds. The Ritchie Gymnasium was decorated in the colors of the class, green and gold.

The officers for the class of '31 are: John LeRoy, President; Harry Hess, Vice-President; Martha Ross Temple, Secretary; Ridgeley Park, Treasurer; Jane Hammack and John Pitzer, class representatives to the Student Council.

Freshman Class History

In the fall of '28 we, the largest aggregation of green men and women ever to arrive at Maryland, made our appearance on the campus and set about to become typical Marylanders.

The first week we spent in getting familiar with the campus and buildings and becoming acclimated. We were entertained royally and had quite a fine time. College was going to be a great party. Then the upperclassmen arrived.

How we detested to have to settle down and submit to rat rules and rabbit rules. Those errands we ran, those embarrassing situations, having to propose to various girls, etc.—but we do look back on those moments with a bit of remorse to think that they are gone forever.

Gradually we began to know the upperclassmen. Taking part in various activities made many pleasant contacts, and finally we fell into our place as model freshmen.

Fall Sports began and the freshman squads were large, resulting in a great deal of competition for positions. Football, Cross-Country and Fall Track all received a large representation of the Class of 1932.

Our Freshman Basket-ball squad paralleled the varsity squad in the attention that the two received. Our team did not lose a single game, and in no game did we fail to run up a score of at least 35 points against our opponents.

Our Freshman Frolic was quite an improvement over previous years. It actually resembled a play or show of some sort, and the dance which followed was certainly a success.

Then rat rules went off. What a relief it was to cut campus and smoke.

In every Spring Sport we put up a fighting team, and now we are ready to come back again in the Fall to start another fight with the Freshmen—to bring them up properly as Maryland men and women should be brought up.

ACTIVITIES

Extra-curricular activities are of the greatest importance to the student. It is through these activities that the young man or woman receives both executive and business training while in college.

The individual's popularity is governed greatly by the number of activities in which he takes part. Together with a high rating of scholarship it is the object of each to participate in as many organizations as possible.

PUBLICATIONS

Student Publications

The first of the Student Publications to appear on the campus was the REVELLE, published by the Senior Class in 1897. Since that time the Annual has been published by the Junior Class in honor of the Seniors.

The first college paper made its first appearance in 1910 as the Triangle. It prospered for four years as a bi-monthly, when it became the Maryland Agricultural Weekly. Two years later, when the name of the college was changed to Maryland State, the publication became the Maryland State Weekly. The Maryland State Review appeared on February 6, 1919, with a tremendous increase in size and subscription. In 1920 the paper was called the University Review, as at that time Maryland State became affiliated with the University of Maryland. In the year 1921 the paper was published as the Diamondback, and has continued under this name.

Student Publications at Maryland have been progressing steadily over a long period of time, and are now on a sound working basis. Though the students do practically all of the planning and work, there is close faculty supervision, both bodies working together harmoniously.

One man who is outstanding in the advancement of Student Publications is Mr. William Hottel. Too much credit cannot be given him for the work he has done. For no benefit to himself, Mr. Hottel took hold of Student Publications when they were down and out and in the hole financially, and brought them out and established them on a firm basis. Since he has been guiding the way, the publications have certainly advanced to first-class editions.

At the completion of the REVELLE and as a means of relaxation for the staff, an annual banquet is held for all members of publications staffs. At this time the newly elected officers are introduced and noteworthy publication men address the gathering. The banquet is always followed by a dance, and is a wonderful climax for a year of work.

THE REVEILLE

The REVEILLE is a Junior publication, compiled and edited by the Juniors and presented to the Seniors as a record of their last year at Maryland.

The present staff has tried to put into the book all those happy events experienced during the year, 1928-29, and has attempted to play up these incidents in a light and carefree manner; typical of the blitheful days spent on the Maryland campus.

In the work of preparing this volume, we cannot give too much praise to the staff members who so willingly contributed their efforts to the promotion of the REVEILLE. This spirit of faithfulness alone was to the editors as fuel to a fire.

In addition to the staff we cannot slight the firms with whom we had various dealings. We are greatly indebted:

To H. G. Roebuck & Son for their expert advice and stimulating cooperation and interest which they displayed at all times;

To White Studio for their excellent photography and prompt deliveries on all orders;

To Maurice Joyce Engraving Company for their immediate and expert service on all engraving;

To John A. Curtin for his excellent art work and mountings;

To David J. Molloy & Co. for the cooperation in designing and bringing out the ideas expressed on the cover;

To the Faculty and Administration Officials who so pacifically accepted all interruptions and returned good for evil by cooperating to the greatest extent.

The Diamondback

While retaining the same size as has been employed for the last two years, the Diamondback has been subjected to various changes in management and form during the scholastic season 1928-29.

Primary among these changes is the student direction secured for the purpose of affording greater opportunity for the expression of undergraduate opinion and tastes in news-writing. Full responsibility for the news content has been placed upon the student officers, with the idea of developing in them a more mature appreciation of newspaper ethics.

Several changes in the mechanical features of the paper also have made their appearance this year, a new style of heading, numbered pages, and variations in the make-up. Editorials have been increased in number, and in the variety of subjects treated. Their scope has been extended to subjects of intercollegiate and nation-wide interest, in addition to the customary University topics. A more outspoken policy of frankness has been followed wherever practicable.

Two new standardized columns have been added under the present administration. One of these—a series of write-ups of the histories and purposes of the honor societies on the campus—is designed to acquaint the undergraduates with the recognition offered for their work while at the University. The other is a weekly resume of the events at the institution ten years ago. Letters from alumni have attested the popularity of this feature.

Several days after the Fall Homecoming Day, in November, a precedent was set in the appearance of a four-page rotogravure section, along with the regular issue of the paper. This contained pictures of the game and visitors, together with various views depicting University life and activities at that time.

For the first time in recent years, students have been occupying the positions of Sports Editor and Alumni Editor. The results of this change indicate that it has been a success.

The Student Assembly is the instrument for all Student Government. It is made up of the entire student body, and carries on all business that concerns the students. The Assembly operates under a regularly drawn-up constitution and is governed by its own officers. To become an officer of the Student Assembly is one of the highest honors, and one of the most sought-after positions on the campus.

The Student Assembly meets the second Wednesday of each month at 11.20 o'clock in the Auditorium to carry on any business that may come before the body.

In order to carry on the proper executive management of student affairs, the Student Executive Council was formed. This body is made up of two representatives from each class, the presidents and vice-presidents of each class, the President of Women's Student Government, and President and Vice-President of the Student Assembly. The Executive Council, and the Committee on Student Affairs, which aids as an advisory board to the Council, work together harmoniously for the betterment of conditions of the students and university.

Reserve Officers' Training Corp

The work of the Department of Military Science and Tactics has progressed this year to a very satisfactory degree. The proficiency of the R. O. T. C. Regiment has greatly improved, due to the efforts of its members in cooperation with the Military Department Staff.

The members of the Military Department Staff have been greatly gratified by the attitude of cooperation noted in the faculty and the student officers of the Regiment. Without the assistance of the faculty and the student body the Reserve Officers' Training Corps cannot achieve the purpose for which it has been established by the people of the United States. This purpose is to develop young men who are qualified to undertake the leadership of troops in the event of a national emergency. I feel that this purpose has been accomplished at the University of Maryland.

Women's Student Government Association

The Women's Student Government Association, made up of all women who enter the University as students, is the body that its name implies. Through a Council elected by all the coeds all regulations for girls are made and enforced. Dean Adele Stamp is the advisor, and all matters of rules must be approved by her.

The aims and ideals of the organization are set extremely high. The honor system works out to the letter, each member of the Executive Council making herself responsible for the rest of the coeds in keeping rules. Any breaking of a rule is reported by the offender to a member of the Council, and the Council calls a special meeting to determine the seriousness of the offense and the penalty. With such a fair system, no coed can complain. Each girl helps to make the social regulations, and she is therefore willing to abide by them.

A further action of the Association is the appointment of a recorder of points who keeps a record of all major offices held by various girls. In order that the distribution of honor and work may be more even among the women students, certain limits are set for the number of points each may have. Every office held counts for a certain number of points.

No better means could be employed for the development of individual responsibility, honor, good scholarship, and high ideals in standards than the Women's Student Government Association.

The officers for the year were: Emily Herzog, President; Audrey Ryon, Vice-President; Catherine Barnsley, Secretary-Treasurer; Clemencia Gause, Recorder of Points.

Y. W. C. A. CABINET

Young Women's Christian Association

The Young Women's Christian Association is an outgrowth of a religious organization known as "College Women's Church Club." A charter was granted in 1924 from the national Y. W. C. A., recognizing this association as a student movement with the purpose "To unite in a desire to realize a rich and creative life."

This aim has been considered in planning a varied program which has been successfully carried out. It included Service, World Fellowship Meetings, Discussion Groups, Conferences, Speakers on many subjects, as well as Social Meetings.

The Cabinet assisted faculty leaders during "Orientation Week." They entertained freshman girls at a tea, a marshmallow roast and song gathering, a very successful Big Sister-Little Sister party, and also they sponsored the "Big Sister Movement." Finally, the Y. W. C. A., in conjunction with the Y. M. C. A., edited and distributed the Freshman handbook.

Conferences are a major part of Y work. Delegates from the association were benefitted by attending the three large Tri-State Student Y Conferences. The tradition of furnishing some poor family with a Christmas basket was carried out as usual.

The association, through its national affiliation, has been particularly fortunate in having several traveling secretaries, as visitors on the campus. Mrs. Induk Kim, a Korean woman, delivered a fascinating address at one of the meetings.

Membership is open to all women on the campus who are conscientiously willing to uphold the aims and ideals of the association.

Officers for the closing year were: President, Margaret Karr; Vice-President, Margaret McMinimy; Secretary, Grace Maxwell; Treasurer, Roberta Willard, and Conference Representative, Gladys Bull.

Women's Athletic Association

This organization originated in 1924 to fill the need for some central governing body for the few scattered athletic interests among the women of the University. Up until that time there had been no possibility for coeds having talent in tennis, basketball, swimming, and track to make any showing. There was no incentive to bring the would-be athletes together. Rifle was the only field in which there was sufficient development to enable it to function as an organized sport.

With a realization of the need of the University, the Women's Athletic Association was founded with the following purpose: To supervise girls' athletics; to promote more and better sports; to promote good sportsmanship; and to provide an incentive by presenting letters to individuals and trophies to winning teams. Officers were elected and a constitution accepted.

The first sports, except for Rifle, which were given the attention of the Association were basket-ball and tennis. Then followed track, swimming, and bowling. Now the Association sponsors a Rifle team which has turned out a national champion for the last three years, a Tennis Tournament, and an inter-class Basket-ball Tournament. There is also a bowling schedule between the girls of the various dormitories and the sorority houses.

Every year letters are presented at the annual banquet of the organization. These were formerly small circled ones, but through the efforts of the Association, women athletes may now obtain regular-sized "M.'s."

The officers for the year are: President, Anne Matthews; Vice-President, Catherine Bainsley; Secretary, Eleanor Baumel, and Treasurer, Margaret McMinimy.

Girls "M" Club

The Girls' "M" Club was organized at the University of Maryland on May 26, 1926. Any girl who has been awarded a letter for excelling in either of the major sports—basket-ball and rifle—is eligible for membership.

The purpose of this club is to further athletics and good sportsmanship among the girls at the institution. The club provides a goal for girls to strive for in addition to a place on the teams of a major sport. Even though the membership is limited to only Wearers of the "M," the "M" Club has played a great part in the development of women's athletes during the past three years of its existence.

The officers for the year 1928-29 are: Hazel Belle Kreider, President; Elizabeth Garber, Vice-President; Marguerite Clafin, Secretary; Elizabeth Jones, Treasurer.

Bowling

Bowling first began to find favor among the girls when a bowling tournament was held last year between the various girls' dormitories. Each team bowled about seven matches of three games each. In the fall of this year a beautiful silver trophy was presented to the winning team, and a prize given to the holder of high individual game score.

Due to the enthusiasm shown by the girls it was decided to give bowling a permanent place on the girls' sports calendar, with an inter-dormitory tournament to be held each year. The matches are held in the College Park alleys two nights a week.

A manager is elected each year by the Women's Athletic Association, and dormitory captains are elected by each house. Mary Murray held the position of manager during the past year.

All of the matches were not completed, but Gerneaux Hall was well in the lead at the time of this writing, having won seventeen games and lost only four. Dorothea Freseman of Sigma Delta held high individual game score of 103.

The standing of the teams is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Percentage
Gerneaux Hall	17	4	.809
Homestead	12	3	.800
Practice House	8	4	.666

Under Sergeant Hendricks' careful guidance the Girls' Rifle Team has worked hard to add another list of victories to the excellent records of preceding years. Of the twenty-eight scheduled matches, the team won twenty-two, tied one, and lost four.

Each year the team also fired in several national matches; the Dot and Circle sponsored by the Dot and Circle Rifle Sorority; and the National Team Championship Match sponsored by the National Rifle Association. As yet the results of the Dot and Circle match are not known. However, our team placed second in the N. R. A. Match with a score of 2,944 out of a possible 3,000, leaving the coveted first place, for the third consecutive year, to George Washington University, who fired the exceptional score of 2,974.

This loss was more than made up for when Margaret Mitchell fired a score of 593 out of a possible 600, which gave to her a second time the Women's Individual Inter-Collegiate Championship. We are all very proud of Peggy, and need but look at her record for the year to know that her excellent firing in the individual match was not just a bit of luck. She has shown a remarkable consistency throughout her whole rifle career, and has the honor of counting in more matches than any other member of the team, having counted in all but two. She also had the second highest total score for the year. Hazel Krieder holds high total, with 3,253 out of a possible 3,300. Peggy fired 3,247 out of 3,300.

The team will lose through graduation Hazel Kreider, Betty Garber, Clemencia Gause, and Mary Murray, but this still leaves a number of excellent shots in the persons of Peggy Mitchell, Felsa Jenkins, Marguerite Clafin, Dorothy Blaisdell, Mary Koons, Gladys Oberlin, and Margaret Meigs. With these girls forming the nucleus of next year's team, coupled with some very promising Freshman material, and aided by Sergeant Hendricks' untiring efforts, a banner year may well be expected.

Basketball

Girls' Basketball consists of an inter-class tournament, and not inter-collegiate games. Each of the class plays each of the other class teams until one class is victorious over the rest. For the past three years this honor has gone to the same squad of girls. When, as freshmen, they tackled the upperclassmen, their efforts were rewarded by the championship. The following year the same class, represented by practically the same group of girls, was again victorious, and this year as Juniors they have reached the distinction of three undefeated seasons. During all three years this team has been captained by Catherine Barnsley. Among the members of the other teams, Betty Garber, Senior; Miriam Lloyd and Elgar Jones, Sophomores; and Evelyn Harrison played exceptionally good games.

Girls' Tennis

The Spring Tournament of last year, 1928, was larger and harder fought than any previous one in the history of girls' tennis at the University of Maryland. The four girls who reached the semi-finals were Betty Garber, Connie Church, Helen Mead and Marguerite Claflin. Connie and Rita were the winners over Betty and Helen, respectively, and played each other for the winner of the series. Rita, a Sophomore, defeated Connie, who had been champion for four consecutive series, thereby winning the Tournament.

This fall, because of the bad condition of the courts, the Girls' Tennis Team was unable to begin playing until so late that it was decided to omit the fall matches, which had never been completed in other years, and to concentrate on a larger and better Spring Tournament.

The turn-out for the Spring Tournament is about fifty, and the girls have made a greater effort to play their matches by schedule than ever before. At this time, rainy weather has prevented much progress and the rounds are still in a preliminary state, but keen competition and a successful tournament may easily be predicted from the good form displayed so far. It is hoped that in a few years Maryland will have the large and well-made set of courts that have been planned. With better equipment provided, coeds will have a chance to have a real tennis team that can play a much greater part of the time than is now possible. So far it has always been the case that girls are required to leave the courts at any time the mens' teams wish to practice. This is a very great inconvenience, of course, besides seemingly unjust.

Isabel Dynes is again the Manager of Tennis, and is to be aided this year by several of the girls who figured in the last rounds of the matches: Marguerite Claflin, Betty Garber, Helen Mead, and many Freshmen girls and others new to the game.

The Glee Club

The Glee Club started the year with an entire change of policy, both in management and program. The Club this year became an absolute Student Organization, functioning entirely independently of all faculty management and directing. John McDonald was elected director and guided the Club through a very successful year. The programs were also lighter. Instead of featuring the more classical type of music the recitals tended more towards the music of the day.

The Annual Christmas trip consisted of a tour of the Eastern Shore of Maryland. The Club was accompanied by its own five-piece orchestra. The season was quite successful, and the Club has equalled the success attained in previous years.

The Cotton Pickers' Minstrel Show

The ninth annual Cottonpickers' Minstrel was presented in the Maryland Auditorium on Thursday, March 7, 1929 A. D. The stage was decorated in red and white. These colors predominated in the dress of the chorus, which did itself proud during the chorus of the evening by singing many popular songs of the day. Of chorus, as is customary, the entire show was divided into two parts. The first part being made up entirely of the Interlocutor, end men, chorus and piano accompanist, supported by instrumental instruments (2 white—2 saxaphones, drums and banjo, no Kazoos. The large part of the evening was taken up with popular chorus (again) and solo songs (which the boys gamely strived to conquer). Jokes? (some are very questionable) and stunts, the feature one perhaps being the performance of the Hotel Wellesley Society Orchestra (K. A. Sincopoters) — The second part in the main was comprised of a series of vaudeville cast featuring the Thayer dancers (girls), Shoms and Welsh (the harmony twins) and Si and Sid, the Strickland-Bonbrest Rhythm Kings. The show was supplemented largely thru the presence of John Baldwin, a professional minstrel performer from Washington, and was under the direction of Walker Hale, assisted by the members of the Kappa Alpha Fraternity. This show has a prominent place in the activities calendar at University of Maryland and is looked forward to annually, etc., etc., etc. I almost forgot to state that

Editor's Note (1) The writer has been requested and even instructed to emphasize the fact that the work of the chorus in the performance was excellent.

The U. of M. Little Symphony Orchestra

The Little Symphony Orchestra has completed its fifth year in a highly creditable manner after a most successful season of study, rehearsal and public appearance under the direction of B. Louis Goodyear.

Previous to the year 1924 no symphonic organization had graced the life at College Park. At the time the Opera Club was organized the need of an orchestra was felt, and thus there came into existence one of the most important musical groups on the campus. Following the first performance of the Opera Club the orchestra became an independent body, and was recognized by the University senate. Players are given credit for the year's work, although a great number play purely for the love of good music. Membership is open to students of all classes and to the faculty.

PROF. B. F. GOODYEAR
Director

It is the purpose of the orchestra to study and play only the classics, and this ideal has been strictly followed out in the preparation of its programs. The symphonies of Mozart, Hayden and Schubert have been played. Last year the greatest achievement was realized in the presentation of Franz Schubert's Unfinished Symphony. This year the work was confined to shorter symphonic works. On Wednesday, February 13, a splendid program was given in the auditorium, with Gretchen Hood of Washington, soprano, and Ruth Hays, violinist, as soloists. The orchestra, in addition to the concert programs, furnishes most enjoyable music for University occasions, and is always a great attraction and credit to the players, the director and the institution.

Student Band

The Student Band was organized as a permanent organization in 1927-28. Its purpose was to have a trained body of musicians to supply music on demand for any campus activity.

During the two years which the Student Band has been organized, progress has been made. Marked improvement in the qualities of the music has been due to the efforts of the director, Sergeant Otto Siebeneichen.

Mr. Harry Hoshell also deserves great credit for the great aid he has given the band, both as a musician and as a drill master. Through his stimulating efforts with drilling the band, he has developed a unit that works as one man. The excellent figures presented at the big games are an example of his exceptional work.

To complete the attractive appearance of the band, new uniforms were obtained. These uniforms were given by the Alumnae Association, who so loyally supported the movement.

One of the outstanding entertainments of the year is the Annual Student Band Concert. This concert is open to all students free of charge and quite an elaborate program is presented.

The band also gave a recital through WRC, Washington broadcasting station.

During the 1928-29 season, the band accompanied the various teams on several trips, making an inspiring sight for Maryland spectators so far from home, to see a Maryland Band come on the field flaunting the colors in the faces of the opponents.

Under the leadership of its newly elected officers, the band is looking forward to an earlier and even greater advancement during the year 1929-30.

The Maryland Opera Club

In 1924 a group of singing students working under Professor Goodyear, organized the Maryland Opera Club. The first operetta presented, "Carmelita," was written and arranged by Prof. Goodyear in the same manner that "May Time" was originated from Schubert's music, "Carmelita" being a compilation of some of the standard American composers. Since that time the club has grown and each year has presented a light opera in a most successful manner.

Following two performances of "Carmelita," the club presented "Erminie." Then came two performances of "The Pirates of Penzance." Its great popularity was evident since it was repeated. The leading roles in the second cast were sung by Katherine Baker, Olive Kelk, Stanleigh Jenkins, Dr. Charles B. Hale, E. M. Barron, John McDonald, Albert Cook, Winifred McMinimy, Helen Wooster and Julia Louise Behring.

Last year the club gave one of the most artistic productions of "Pinafore" ever accomplished by amateurs. John McDonald, Greenville Leef, Lenore Blount, Dr. Charles B. Hale, Henry McDonald, Edward Barron and Marguerite Claflin sang the leads.

This year the opera was another Gilbert and Sullivan classic—the "Mikado." It was the most brilliant and successful attempt yet. Two performances were given before audiences that crowded the auditorium on April 17 and 18. John McDonald sang the role of the "Mikado," Evelyn Ballou was "Yum-Yum," Dr. Charles B. Hale appeared as the all-important "Poo-Bah," Charles Criss as "Nanki Poo," Helen Meade as "Pitti Sing," Marguerite Claflin as "Peep Bo" and Olive Kelk as "Kataisha." The Little Symphony, as usual, furnished the accompaniments under the direction of B. Louis Goodyear.

Footlight Club

The Footlight Club was founded during the Spring of 1927 by a few students interested in dramatics. However, the club was not organized as a campus organization until the following year. The Club was fortunate from the start in securing the support of a faculty committee composed of Professor Charles S. Richardson, Professor Robert M. Watkins and Dr. Charles B. Hale, the last of whom has so ably directed all of the productions.

The Footlight Club has acted as a stimulant to dramatic work. It has been set up as a goal to all individuals who aspire to perform before the bright lights.

During the year 1927 four plays, "The Pot Boiler," "The Man in the Bowler Hat," "The Monkey's Paw" and "The Old Soak," were enacted. Each of these presentations reflected great credit to the young organization. During the year 1928-29 the membership increased from twelve to twenty-two individuals, and during the year the following productions were presented: "Three Live Ghosts," "Suppressed Desire," and three acts from "Midsummer Nights' Dream."

"Three Live Ghosts" was presented in the Auditorium and the proceeds were used by the club to further their work on the campus.

"Suppressed Desire" was presented for the benefit of the Progress Club of College Park.

"Midsummer Night's Dream" was given before the Shakespearean Society of Washington, D. C. Officers for 1928-29 are:

FOOTBALL RESUME

JOHN PARSONS

The football campaign of 1928, a huge success, was marred by only three losses, but glorified by the defeat of Yale, Virginia, and Johns Hopkins, three of Maryland's ancient rivals.

Maryland opened the season by handing Washington College an overwhelming defeat. The Shoremen were no test for the Terrapins and the second string was used against them the majority of the time.

The following two weeks Maryland ran up against two walls, one after the other, by coming into contact with North Carolina and South Carolina, respectively. The Maryland teams had not yet settled down to the machine-like work which was later to appear.

When Western Maryland visited the Old Liners, the Green Terrors had an uphill climb during the whole fray—Lady Luck also opposed them. Maryland for the first time exhibited her real strength.

On the 27th at Richmond two well-trained teams met, and battled to a 0-0 tie. The odds were even and superhuman efforts were overwhelmed by super-human repulses.

The V. P. I. game upset the dope and Maryland again faltered in her victorious campaign.

The big surprise came with Yale's defeat, in which Snyder glorified himself and forced his name in the archives of All-American Football. Evans also came into the limelight because of his excellent work in handling the team.

To complete a perfect homecoming day for Marylanders, Virginia fell before a superior Terrapin Twelve, which nevertheless had to work hard for its victory. However, the stopping of Sloan was the secret of success.

Washington and Lee was defeated in an exciting and breath-taking exhibition of football, which kept the spectators always on their toes. This game was a continual tear, and the Old Liners came through with a lone touchdown to win.

The crowning feature of a successful season was the humble bowing of Hopkins. The Blue Jays were unable to stop the smashing runs directed by the Terrapins.

Snyder and Evans did most of the ball carrying against Hopkins, and both went for long gains. Evans ran the team again and almost equaled his playing against Yale. Madigan fought valiantly at center until he was forced out of the game because of an injury. Hopkins' only advance was a long run on a kick-off. The Old Liners

RESUME

The Maryland Freshman team got off to a bad start and in only one game did they emerge victorious.

The sole victory came from the University of Virginia freshmen, in which the yearlings offered the semblance of formidable varsity material.

There are no alibis to offer for their defeats; the scores were just against them.

The W. and L. game was a heart-breaker; the Frosh scored but missed the kick and this resulted in a W. and L. victory.

The North Carolina, Western Maryland, and V. M. I. games were a repetition of tough breaks and miscalculations, resulting in the defeat of the Freshman in each case.

JUST BEFORE THE START OF THE W. & L. MEET

CROSS-COUNTRY RESUME

The quality of Terrapin Harriers has always been exceptional, and it did not fall below the scale during the 1928-29 season. On the contrary, the team advanced, dropping only one meet during the entire season. But what else could one expect of a team composed of men with the quality and spirit as the present squad. Myers, captain of the team, placed as the first Maryland man and was never worse than second to finish. This record is a goal for future hill and dalers to shoot at.

The spirit of the team is exemplified through Bowman. In his Sophomore year, Bowman was the coming distance runner. He held records and was flashing classy times in every race. In the Junior year something happened. Bowman was not his old self. He couldn't stand the grind. Nobody knew what was wrong, but everyone admitted that Bowman was through. Everyone said so, but Bowman. He stuck. He was determined he wasn't through. He stuck out, running terrible races, but nevertheless, sticking and showing no sign of improvement.

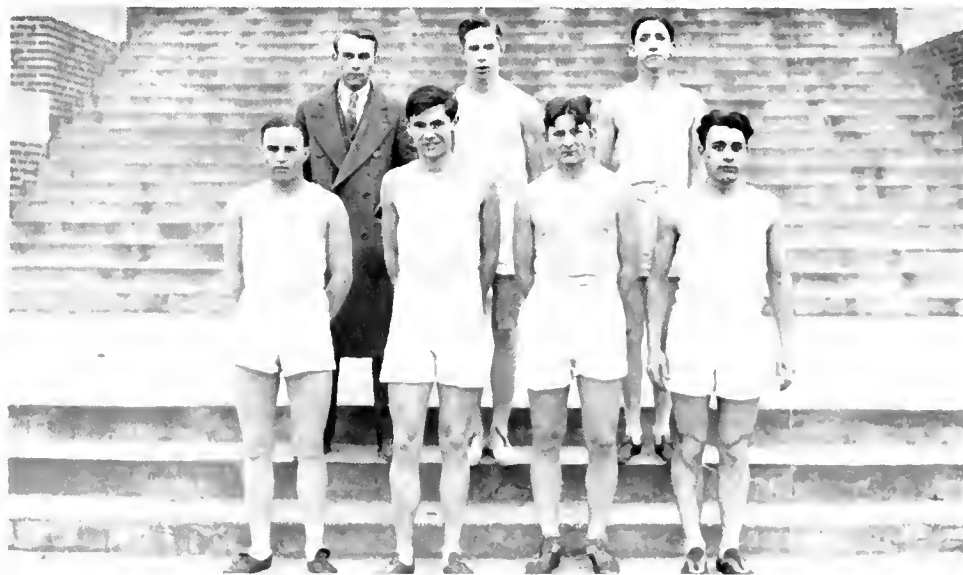

In his Senior year Bowman came back ready to get down on the old grind. No one thought he would come through. He merely took every one off his feet by finishing as second Maryland man in every meet of the season. Bowman had stuck, and staged his comeback. May all true Marylanders grant him the place he has won for himself.

So with men of this type the team could do nothing but win. After only two weeks' work under Coach Eppley, who was new at the game, the team went down to Annapolis and practically ran the Navy into the bay. Navy had been out for a month and was supposedly in the "pink" of condition.

At V. P. I. the squad was unfortunate and was not able to come through as expected.

However, the most thrilling race was with Washington and Lee. Myers and Backus alternated continuously for first place over the $5\frac{3}{4}$ -mile course. At the stretch Myers was slightly in the lead. Both raced down to the finish neck and neck, Backus winning by a few inches with the time of 28 minutes and 33 seconds.

At the Hopkins meet, little trouble was experienced. Schieble of Hopkins placed first and the whole Maryland team followed him across the line, thus giving Maryland a tremendous victory.

BASKETBALL RESUME

After getting away to a poor start, Maryland finished her basketball season in fine style, by whipping Navy, Western Maryland, and Hopkins merely by superior playing. During the early part of the season the team played in and out basketball, and were not consistent at all. Both Radice and Dean were off their game. These heretofore dead shots were not reliable this season. However, when they did strike a day on, they really looked good and the score was usually in favor of Maryland. Radice's poor shooting was probably due to an injury which he received during football season.

Heagy's work was creditable and consistent throughout the season. At guard he proved to be an unsurpassable bulwark for many oncoming team.

Allen, who did not work so regularly, came through with exceptional playing. In the Hopkins game he could not be stopped, and at the Southern Conference Tournament he was considered the outstanding player of the day.

Pitzer proved a great aid to Heagy by alternating with Dean at guard. Pitzer did not see a great deal of action, but he exhibited capability in the pinches.

McGann, while small, made up for his size in speed. His clever and fast play were great assets in both the Navy and Hopkins games. Madigan and Hetzel alternated at center quite frequently. Both boys played hard throughout the season and exhibited fast basketball.

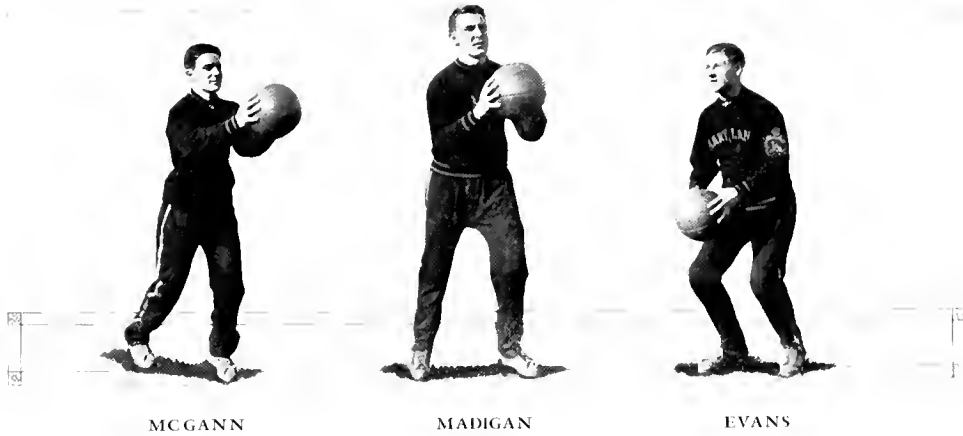

Through Chapman, the speed of the teams was expected to be improved a great deal. Fans, however, were disappointed to learn that he was ineligible because of having won a letter at Washington College from which he was transferred.

Maryland showed its real strength for the first time against St. Johns. The team, functioning like a machine, put on an exhibition of perfect basketball.

It was when Navy was trounced that Radice had an exceptional day. His clever shooting and passing, backed up by Heagy's consistent guarding, were largely the causes of winning. In this game Radice came through with his old form and deadly long shots.

When Western Maryland came down to the Old Liners' camp they met a greatly improved quintet, which played circles around them. The Terrors were no match for the Terrapins and showed up poorly.

It was at Hopkins that the most thrilling game of the season was played. The Jays had beaten the Old Liners in their home court about five weeks before, and the Terrapins were out for blood. The game was a battle from start to finish; first one team in the lead and then the other.

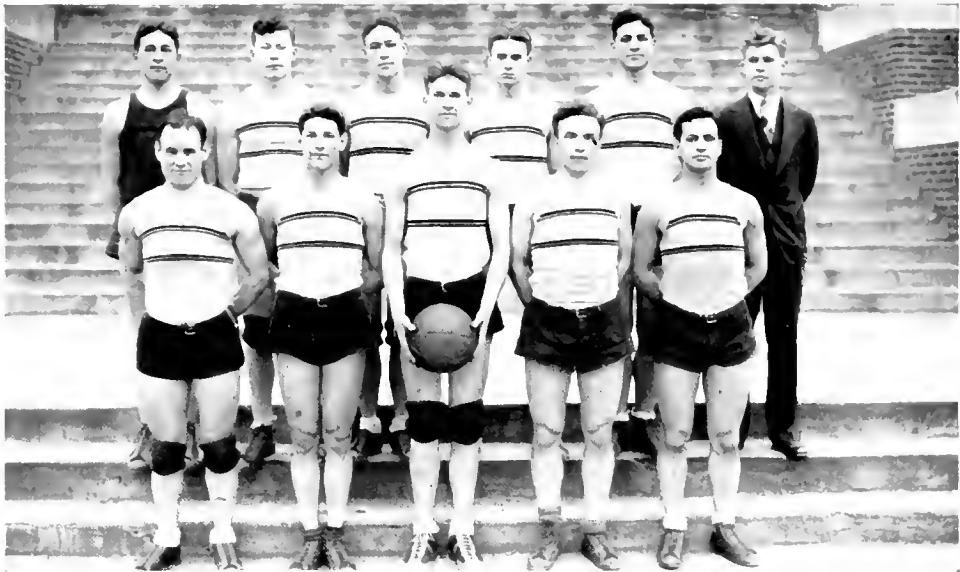

Allen and Cohen starred throughout the game. A moment before the final whistle Heagy sank one from the center of the floor and the next instant Allen duplicated the shot to win by two points as the whistle blew.

In the Southern Conference Tournament, Maryland was defeated by the Mississippi team, which was intact from the 1927-

28 season and who were winners that year. This team fought to the semi-finals in the 1928-29 season.

The Freshman Basketball Team completed an unusually good season, undefeated. In the eleven games they played, the yearlings scored 565 points to 227 of their opponents. It was very difficult for Coach Faber to pick a team from the wealth of material found in the freshman class. Their consistency throughout the season caused much favorable comment. Among those who tasted defeat at their hands were Navy Plebes, Devitt Prep, Catholic University Frosh, Baltimore Poly and Tech High, the District champions.

The Varsity quintet will be very much strengthened by the addition of these talented tossers.

RESUME

In a state which is famous, athletically - speaking, for the number and quality of the lacrosse teams to be found within its borders, it is but fitting that the University of Maryland should each year be found worthy of a high national ranking; eloquent testimony of the character of the coaching given the teams and the spirit with which it was received by the men. Although the present season is but half completed at this writing, by the record already achieved by the seemingly tireless men who carry the Gold and Black on the lacrosse field it may readily be seen that 1929 has been a season of hard play, some setbacks but ever creditable exhibitions for the Old Line antelopes.

Thus victories have been won; the squad and some of the men have distinguished themselves by thrilling exploits coolly done in the fire of competition, but transcendent is the knowledge that at Maryland a new and young coach and an untried group of players have in the two years they have taken the field fought their way into the finals of the round robin tournament held to determine the American Olympic team and this year have again proved their right to a place with the leaders of the lacrosse parade.

For the season of 1928 was the first in which anyone but Professor R. V. Truitt, nationally known authority on lacrosse, had ever coached the sport at Maryland; it was pleasing to know the rolling green bosom of the campus at College Park had produced his successor, but it was a matter of doubt whether or not Jack Faber, youngest coach in the country last year, could carry on in the very efficient manner Mr. Truitt had done. To darken the doubts felt as to the future of the lacrosse team, the nucleus the new coach had to build his team around, while singularly clever, was small. At the beginning of the season prophecies for success could have been nothing more than unthinking optimism. But the unexpected happened and till the last game with Johns Hopkins, an undefeated reputation was maintained. But too much was too much and the stickmen in Black and Blue proved their superiority over those in Black and Gold. At this time, however, there was much agitation over which team should represent this country at the Olympic games in Holland. It was decided to hold a tournament in which the outstanding teams were to play and give the honors to the victors. The Maryland twelve swept through Navy and Rutgers but again lost to Hopkins.

So well did the team come up to expectations that in the seven games already played against teams from Maryland, from the far South and the North, the Terrapins have scored eighty-three points while the opponents were able to score but ten. Defeat was suffered by the skill and endurance of the team which is now favored to win the national championship.

The season was begun with the two men on the team who have played three years of lacrosse selected as leaders; Emmet Loane as Captain of Defense and Weller Holloway as Captain of Attack. Besides these bulwarks there were the men who had been developed last year to look to—Crothers, Dodson, Heagy, and Wilson defense men, and Evans, Roberts, and Snyder attack men. These athletes are all sterling lacrosse men, but there were several important positions which had to be capably filled if the team was to be up to standard. Men who were capable were found in Chapman and Beck, attack men, and Kelly, a defense man. This was the twelve which started the season.

Little in detail can be told of the first seven games on the schedule. Six of them were complete routs in favor of the Maryland team. New York University, Randolph Macon, Cornell, Hobart, Georgia Tech, and Virginia could not offer the Old Liners anything in the way of opposition. These games were noticeable for the ease and regularity of the Maryland scoring. The Terrapin attack functioned smoothly and succeeded in keeping the action in enemy territory for the greater part of all six games. On the other hand, the defense was rarely put to any sort of a test, but, when occasion required, had little trouble in clearing the Black and Gold ground of the opposing defense.

MORE ACTION AGAINST ST. JOHN'S

HEALY

The St. John's defeat marked the first time the Annapolis college had ever beaten Maryland at lacrosse and it was the first time that the Old Liners had been defeated at College Park in thirteen years. It was a clever St. John's team that turned the trick; the Johnnies have thrown all its athletic resources into lacrosse and its team as a whole was bigger, faster, and, in several highly important positions, it had men who were more polished performers.

St. John's outplayed Maryland in all save about twelve minutes in the opening half, when, after the winners had scored two goals, the Old Liners put on a drive, that with a little more accurate shooting might have turned the tide. But the game went to St. John's, 5-1.

The outstanding performer is Evans. On May 4, he led the country for individual scoring with thirty-three points. Loane, Holloway, Smink, Roberts, Heagy, and Wilson are other men who are above the average. Two of the men who started the season as regulars were unable to play it through. Chapman was injured early but was ably made up for by Smink. Chapman is now trying to earn back his old position. Dodson was laid up in the Georgia Tech game and various shifts were made to fill the gap he left. Madigan is now substituting for him. Reserves are: Healy, Epstein, defense men, and Deckman, Colossimo, Warcholy, attack men.

RESUME

The Maryland Freshmen gave a good account of themselves in every contest played. Not only do the yearling antelopes play first rate lacrosse, but offer great promise for varsity material next year.

In the first game, Baltimore Poly slightly outclassed the team, but after this first engagement the Frosh began to smooth out the rough places and got into real team work.

The Virginia Freshmen were decisively defeated by a superior Freshman twelve. Throughout the remainder of the engagements the Frosh continued to improve under the capable care of Coach Smith.

RESUME

The Old Line Cinderpathers performed against great odds this year. To add to the disastrous loss of several stars, through graduation, there was no track to train on. This was due to the extensive improvements being made in Byrd Stadium. Most of the training was done at Eastern High, Catholic University, or Western High. The distance men particularly suffered because of no track. It was practically impossible for them to get their pace down.

In the dashes, however, it was an entirely different story. These men having ample room to work at home, came through creditably.

The indoor season was unusually short, this year, shorter than any previous Terrapin indoor season. The only indoor competition experience was at the Millrose games, where the mile relay team composed of Kinnamon, Plumley, Linsey and Rensburg, ran second to Harvard and whipped Penn.

At V. M. I. the team lost by only three points. It was a hotly contested meet, and the lead in points alternated constantly. Myers ran a beautiful race in the two-mile, and lowered the school record to ten minutes, ten and three-tenths seconds. Aman did beautiful work in the pole vault, and McDonald and Kinnamon were up to par in the weights and hurdles respectively.

At Washington and Lee, the team was led by six points. Once more McDonald came through to win first in the discus and shot put, and Kinnamon was able to take both hurdles. Linzey ran a beautiful quarter and was just nosed out at the finish. Aman kept up to his winning force in the pole vault.

The cinderpathers of William and Mary came through in top form to whip Maryland. In no other meets have her men made such excellent times. It seemed to be a habit for Maryland to hit the teams when they were having their best days. Both V. M. I. and Washington and Lee made times against Maryland which they have not equalled since. Maryland's men had been running in good form, but the competition was unusually fast.

At Charlottesville the Old Liners met Virginia and V. P. I. Here the Terrapins had quite a tussle to keep in the money. Plumley ran a beautiful half mile, coming from behind in a fast field, to lead by ten yards down the stretch.

Linzey also ran away with the quarter mile. After a fight for the pole at the start he led the field all the way around the cinder path to finish five yards in front of the field.

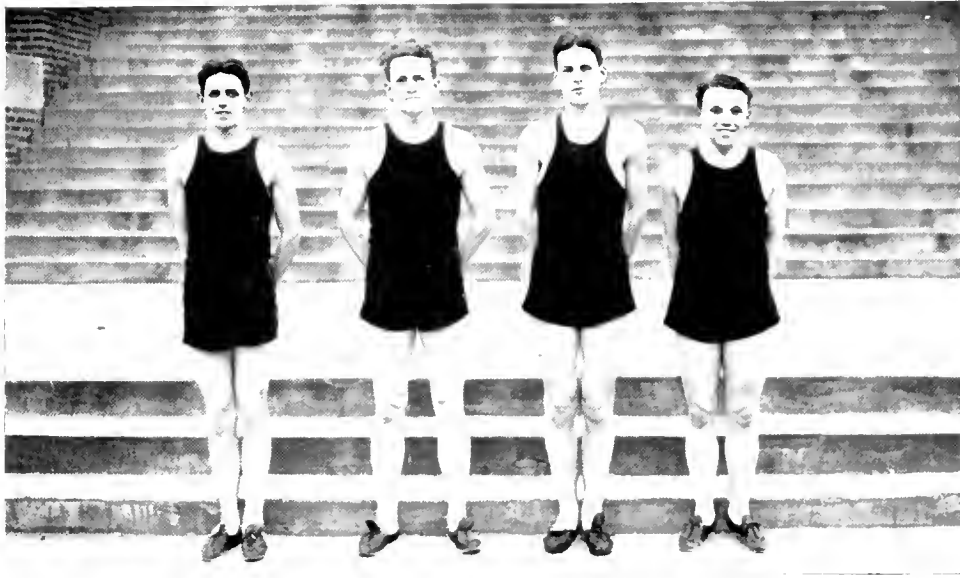

Quinn also garnered a first in the two-twenty. The little sprinter was pushed hard to the 180 mark, where he gradually pulled ahead, inch by inch, to win by a foot.

McDonald also did well in the weights.

In the Penn Relays, the Terrapins were represented by Linzey, Havel, Plumley, and Kinnamon, who made up a mile relay. This team ran against Fordham, Worcester Tech, and Union College. After threatening Fordham in every lap, the Old Liners were nosed out and placed second, a scant two yards behind Fordham.

At Navy the Terrapins were outclassed in all but five events. White was able to take the broadjump with his farthest leap at 21 feet, 9 inches, and Henry McDonald came through to win the javelin.

On the track, Linzey repeated his performance at Virginia and romped home ahead of Fiala, Navy ace, in the quarter mile event.

Plumley, Kinnamon, Linzey Remsberg
RELAY TEAM

Kinnamon was the other man who given but slight heed when places were picked in the stands before the meet, did the unexpected. His victory came in the low hurdles event in which he took the measure of Lloyd, all around star of Navy.

Plumley and Havel took second in the 880 and 440 respectively. Both boys worked hard and ran beautiful races.

What Maryland lacked mostly was second string men. She had no secondary scoring power, whatsoever. The Sophomores did not seem to have the foresight to stick and develop with the year, and come forward as winners during their Junior year.

Too much credit cannot be given "Swede" Eppley, coach, for developing his team. Every man he has, Swede took as a green freshman and made a runner out of him.

RESUME

Maryland's Freshman Track Team was whipped decisively in practically all its meets. The team as a whole was poor but there are many men who seem to promise material for next year's Varsity.

Fauts is particularly outstanding in the pole vault, while Shure is a coming distance man. Shure ran the race of his career at Navy where he finished ahead of the field by a long lead.

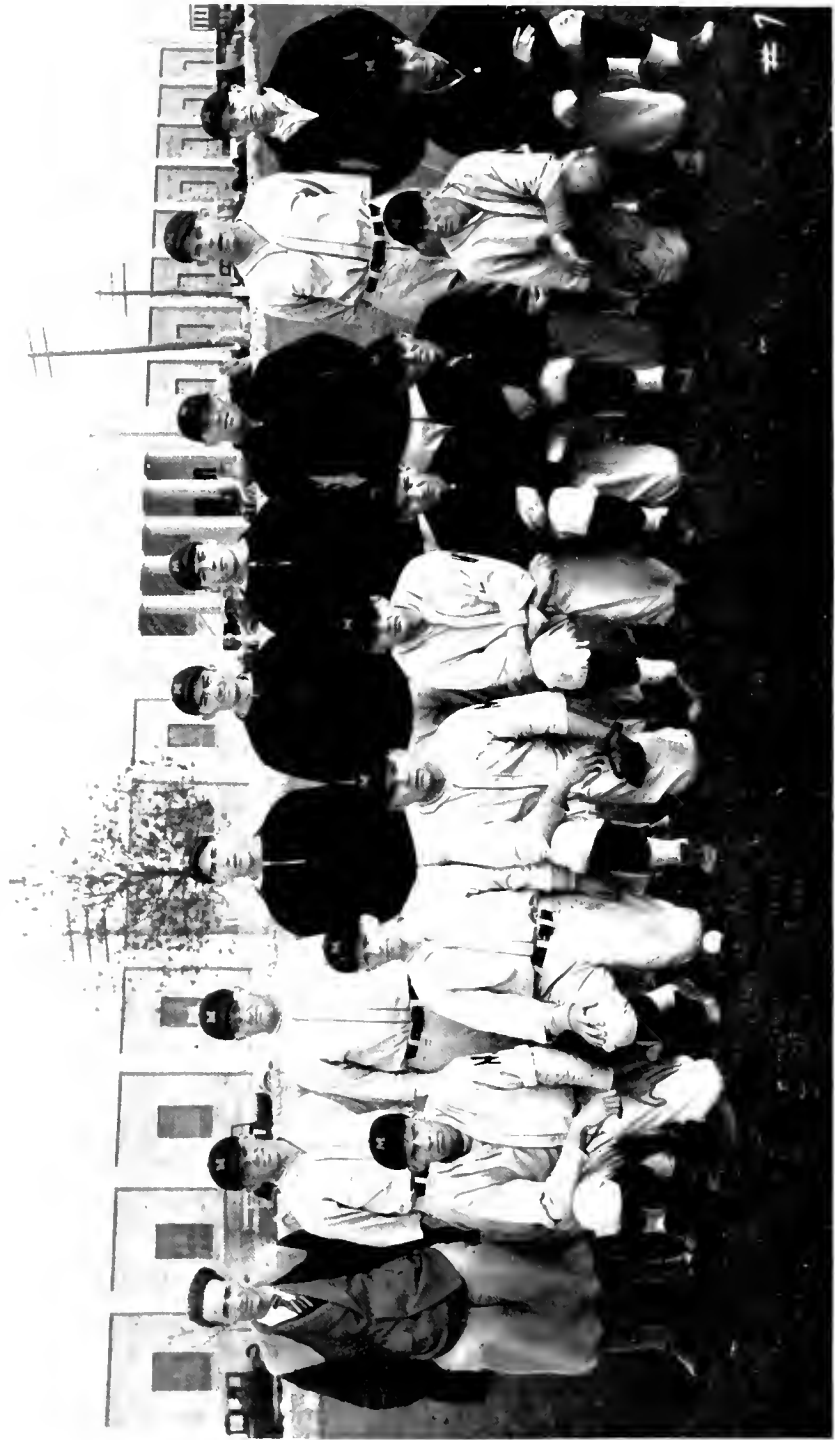

Krajovic, Pease, and Norris all do outstanding work in the weights.

At Eastern Sam McClathery finished second in the high hurdles while Pease and Norris came through to win the shot put and discus respectively.

At the Tome Meet Fauts starred by winning the pole vault and taking third in the broad jump and javelin throw. In the shot Pease and Krajovic took second and third, while Norris took third in the discus and Smith tied for second in the high jump.

RESUME

The baseball team at the University of Maryland cannot be said to be a weak team on paper. But when it came down to actually winning its ball games, the nine somewhere, somehow lost all its effectiveness.

At the beginning of the season, Coach Shipley predicted a light hitting, fast fielding ball club. It turned out that the offense, with but a few exceptions was weak while the defense which rose to major league effectiveness at times was only too prone to crack at crucial moments.

The outfield was made up of Captain Kessler, Kay, Jones, Higgins, and Leschinsky until he was injured. Gaylor, Derr, Radice, and Hetzel patrolled the basepaths, and McGann did practically all the catching. DeMarco, Boublitz, Batson, Phipps, Milburn, and Hess supplied the pitching talent.

To start the season, two good performances were turned in by the ball club in general and by the moundsmen in particular. Pennsylvania and Cornell, coming North after extended Southern tours, were entertained at College Park and found good tussles on their hands despite the fact that the Old Liners were then opening their season. Pitted against Peterson, Red and Blue pitching act, the Maryland batters succeeded in making three runs while Ushka who later entered the game for the Philadelphia team held them scoreless.

The scheduled game with Vermont was rained out when the score was 1-1, but in the few innings which were played Radice, McGann and Derr found time to engineer a startling triple play.

Then Cornell came along and presented Boies, an under-hand pitcher with whose offerings the Maryland batsmen could do nothing. Then the Old Liners began a series of home and home games with members of the Tri-State League, composed of seven colleges in the upper part of the Southern Conference. The first of these contests resulted in a victory over Virginia at Charlottesville, while North Carolina and North Carolina State were lost to. Thirteen safe blows were gathered from the Virginia pitcher and the game was won, 10-4.

Back at College Park, the North Carolina team which was beginning to gather a reputation was again encountered and lost to. V. P. I. was next played and this time the hitters and pitchers combined their best efforts and won with ease, 9-4. A trip to Annapolis was then undertaken and an exciting ball game was finally won by Navy, 11-10.

An even standing in the league was attained when Washington and Lee was defeated by 6-5 at College Park, but this balance and a chance for second place was lost with the 11-5 defeat at the hands of North Carolina State.

No teams have given them much competition although Tech High came within four runs of them. On two occasions the Freshmen have played the varsity and both times the Freshmen have emerged victorious. Hauver has proven himself to be a pitcher of first string caliber, having started every game so far, and having been successful every time. Bob Wilson, star last year at Western High School, holds down the honors behind the plate, while Bozy Berger, Shorty Chalmers, Schleigh, and Charlie May hold down the positions of third base, short stop, second base, and first base, respectively. The outfield consists of Paul Cronin, left field; Buck Miller, right field, and Ralph Sterling, center field.

TENNIS RESUME

Forced to endure wretched conditions for training and practice, the University of Maryland tennis team is having one of its poorest seasons in years.

There are but three courts on the campus which are supposed to suffice for both the varsity and freshman squads: the crowded conditions and poor quality of the grounds made it a practical impossibility for the right sort of preparation to be indulged in. It is felt that if the ten new courts now under construction in the new athletic field had been completed sooner, the tennis season might have been more successful. A coach for the team might also have increased the efficiency of the squad.

One of the most attractive schedules in years was arranged for the netmen. Catholic University was first on the list but this match was rained out. Then Washington and Lee, Swarthmore, and North Carolina were entertained at College Park after which the team took a four-day tour of the South engaging Virginia, Washington and Lee, Richmond, and William and Mary on their home courts. All of these matches resulted in defeat for the Old Line tennis players. However, Captain Dyer, Kurland, and Rosenbaum distinguished themselves by the high quality of their play.

RESUME

The Freshmen have been following in the footsteps of Varsity this year, and so far have not bagged a single match. The yearlings lost their first match to Tech High of Washington. Freeman and Applefeld won for Maryland in the singles while Cockran was not so fortunate. Lynn, Murphy, and Hunt were the others to play.

Although the team has not done exceptional winning work, there is quite a lot of material that looks good for the next varsity season. If the youngsters stick to the game, they can't help developing into coming raquetters for future Maryland teams.

ORGANIZATIONS

It is through the various organizations—the members together striving for a common cause—that those life-long friendships are developed and built up.

SOCIETIES

Linton, Kieffer
Janetzke, Herzog, Richardson

Council of Oratory and Debate

Organized in 1922 for the purpose of combining public speaking interests and inter-collegiate contests, the Council of Oratory and Debate has held its place of high standing among the organizations and societies of the University of Maryland. Its exclusive limitation to membership alone makes it one of the strongest bodies on the campus.

It is composed of four students: the Presidents of the Literary Societies, the President of the Student Assembly, the President of the Women's Student Government Association; and of two faculty members chosen by the student members. These faculty members who were originally elected were Professor Charles Richardson and Professor Frank Lemon. The latter resigned last year. The students to hold membership are:

Fred Linton, President of the Student Assembly

Emily Herzog, President of the Women's Student Government Association

Nicholas Janetzke, President of the New Mercer Literary Society

Duncan Clark, President of the Poe Literary Society.

One of the tasks of the Council is to pick the debaters to represent the University in inter-collegiate matches. Those chosen this year are on the men's team: Amos Holter, Nicholas Janetzke, James Benner, Henry Whiting, Graf Beuhm and Robert Lockridge. Those composing the women's team are: Ruth Hayes, Hazel Tenney, Edith Burnside, Elizabeth Mims, Elizabeth Garber, Barbara Schilling and Elizabeth Carmichael. J. Donald Kieffer is the Manager of the Men's Team, and Barbara Schilling, Manager of the Women's Team. They have been busy arranging very interesting debates with other schools, including the Howard Payne College team, which was composed of cowboys.

Buehm, Lockridge, Janetzki, Whiting, Holter
Schilling, Garber, Edith Burnside, Carmichael, Hays, Mims

Debating Team

The Debating team is really made up of two teams operating together. These teams are the Men's Team and the Women's Team. Each team is made up of a squad of six members. It is the purpose of the teams to develop intercollegiate debating to its utmost level and to place Maryland among the Universities whose debating teams are outstanding in the East.

The Debating Team is financed by the University. A certain fund is given each year to be devoted to the furtherance of debating.

The team is directed by Professor Richardson of the Public Speaking Department, and Dr. Jaeger was just elected during the past year. These two men act as an advisory board and add instructive advice to all debates after they have been prepared by the members of the team.

The Men's Team is managed by Donald Kieffer, with Dick Janetzke as Captain.

Barbara Schilling is Manager of the Girls' Team, which is Captained by Ruth Hays.

A very interesting debate was held with Howard Payne University of Texas. This team was completing a two months' tour of the country, and Maryland was one of the last teams on its schedule.

Other teams that will be engaged are: Johns Hopkins University, Duke University, North Carolina State, University of Virginia. The team is expected to make a very creditable showing against these various teams.

Engineering Society

Among the professional organizations on the campus, the Engineering Society has been active in bringing about a closer relationship between the members of the various departments of the College of Engineering. A series of lectures has been sponsored, whereby prominent practicing engineers present to the society information concerning outstanding present-day problems in engineering.

In this way, students in the Civil, Mechanical, Electrical and Chemical Engineering Departments become better acquainted with one another's work.

During 1928-29 the Engineering Society had the privilege of bringing before the students several excellent motion pictures which were well received. Probably the most interesting of these were the ones dealing with the construction of the famous Conowingo Dam, and the driving of the Cascade Tunnel through the Rockies.

The Society had the pleasure of bringing before its members also Dr. J. H. Dellinger, noted radio expert and Chief Engineer of the Federal Radio Commission.

The officers of the Society during the past year were:

W. H. ELLIOTT	President
H. E. WHEELER	Vice-President
R. R. WELSH	Secretary-Treasurer
R. HITCH	Sergeant-at-Arms

Episcopal Club

The Episcopal Club has a threefold object: First, to bind the Episcopal students of the University of Maryland in closer fellowship; second, to unite this organization with similar groups of Episcopal students in other colleges and universities; third, to carry out a program which will embrace: (1) Worship, (2) Religious Education, (3) Church Extension, (4) Service, and (5) Meetings.

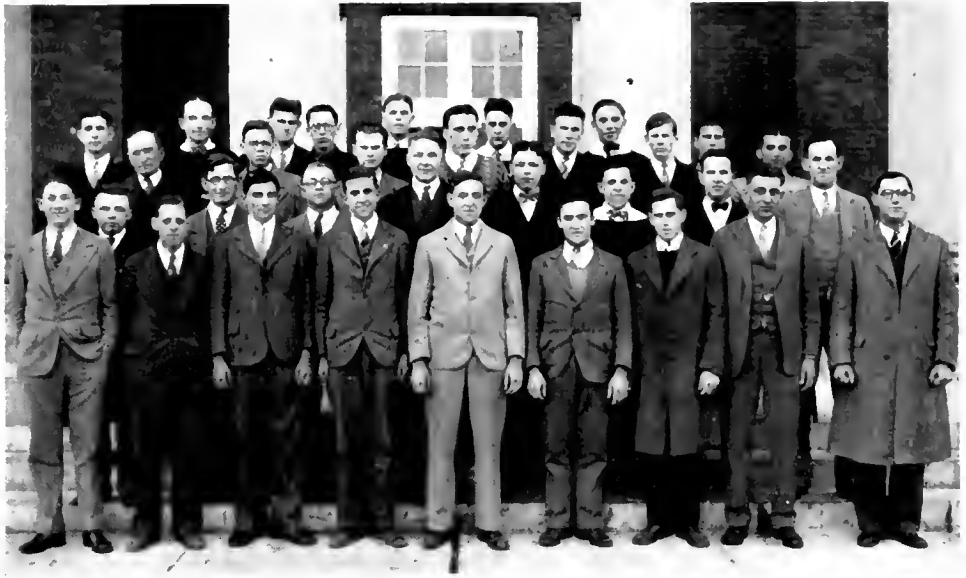

The Club has carried out its threefold objective to a remarkable degree. Firstly, many wonderful friendships have been started in the organization among its members.

Secondly, the Club is affiliated with and meets with other organizations in the National Student Council, whose membership is comprised of student groups in colleges and universities in all parts of the country.

Thirdly, the Club joins in weekly worship at the University Chapel and partakes of Corporate Communion once a month. During the year a series of lectures were delivered by Maryland professors about religion, and many group discussions were successfully conducted. For the extension of the Church, the Club made a special Lenten Offering to a fund started by students to establish a Chaplain at the University of South Dakota. Members are rendering valuable service to the Church by teaching in the Sunday School, singing in the choir, acting as choir mother, playing the organ, and reading lessons in the University Chapel. Meetings are held twice a month at which times social affairs and business matters are attended to. The last meeting of the year is an annual banquet, at which time the new officers are installed.

Hort Club

In the fall of 1919 seven students of Horticulture, with Dr. E. C. Auchter made an extensive tour of various orchards throughout the State. While on this trip the students were deeply impressed by the great losses suffered merely because of ignorance of proper horticultural methods. Moved deeply by these conditions, the group was very anxious to do what they could to eliminate them. It was on this trip that the idea was formed to start a Hort Club. These men came back to the University fired with enthusiasm to get at their work.

The Club was formed, and the meetings were first held at Dr. Auchter's home, and Mrs. Auchter graciously acted as hostess. Gradually the club grew and it became necessary to have larger meeting rooms. The meetings were then held in the Administration Building. Finally a suitable room was obtained in the Horticultural Building, and meetings have been held there since that time.

At each monthly meeting, the members prepare and serve a supper, and prominent men throughout the various States give interesting talks on subjects vital to Horticulture.

In the fall of each year there is an Annual Horticulture Show. For this event the whole Horticulture Building is decorated with display after display of fruit, vegetables, and flowers, and a quite colorful appearance is attained.

In the Spring of each year an Annual Ladies' Banquet is held. A very attractive program is arranged for the guests.

The Hort Club is chiefly interested in furthering the Horticultural activities and relations in the University and the promotion of good fellowship among its members.

The officers for 1928-29 are:

RAYMOND J. ROMARY	President
JOSPH LONG	Vice-President
E. SAMUEL HEMMING	Secretary-Treasurer

Livestock Club

The Livestock Club occupies one of the most unique and important places in the University life. It is supervised and supported by the Agriculture faculty and students. One of its aims is to bring practical-minded men to the school to present both the farmer's and the theoretical man's point of view on livestock. By bringing these two viewpoints together, the student gets an insight of the practical side of raising livestock combined with the theoretical. By having both sides of the argument he is able to judge for himself the best methods. To aid in the betterment of livestock, the Club organizes and sends Livestock judging teams into competition with various other schools. The financing of the teams is managed entirely by the club.

One of the greatest activities sponsored by the organization is the Annual Livestock Fitting and Showing Contest and the Horse Show. Farmers from all over the State gather to these displays. The event is such an attraction that the campus is overcrowded with strangers for the shows.

The program arranged for this event is quite attractive to the farmer. Some of the best authorities on livestock in the country are assembled at the University at this time to give various addresses and practical advice to the farmer. Prize winning stock is gathered from all over the state and is used to display the correct types of animals to foster. Imperfect beasts are also shown to illustrate the contrast and the type of animals to avoid.

By aiding the farmers in the advancement of livestock, the Club reaches its goal, for its object is to further livestock interests throughout the University and State.

The officers for the year 1928-29 are:

New Mercer Literary Society

The history of the New Mercer Literary Club has carried on another year. The organization was founded in January, 1860, and named in honor of Dr. William W. Mercer. The purpose of the society was to cultivate the intellectual faculties of the students, and with this objective in view, has successfully maintained its status and importance in student activities. In 1892 the society underwent several changes, and, as a result, has from that time on been known as "New Mercer." A merger with the "Morrill Society" was attempted three years later, but was unsuccessful and a separation soon occurred.

New Mercer can be doubly proud of being both the oldest student organization at the University of Maryland and also the oldest Literary Society actively connected with an American University.

The programs include various fields of learning and are enjoyed by both the members and other interested students. A sense of freedom is fostered that is conducive to original expression. These expressions and compositions will be found recorded in the paper published quarterly by the New Mercer. This paper is serving as a medium for the expression of the society and campus talent. Lectures by both the faculty members and students, and debating occupy another portion of the program.

As a result of the inter-society debate of last year, New Mercer has permanent possession of the Patterson Cup. This cup is awarded to the society winning its debate three consecutive years and New Mercer has that distinction. The officers for the year are:

NICHOLAS A. JANETZKI	President	PHYLLIS KRESS	Treasurer
EDITH BURNSIDE	Vice-President	AUDREY RYON	Reporter
EDNA BURNSIDE	Secretary	FRANCIS STEVENS	Critic

Poe Literary Society

The Poe Literary Society is an outgrowth of the old Morrill Society, which was established in 1900. This old organization has a fine past to look back upon, and has developed many worthy traditions.

Through the years of its history, Poe has developed many outstanding debating teams. All along the line of its progress are prominent men and women who have done much to elevate the standards of debating at the University. As evidence of the literary ability of Poe there are several cups owned by the club which the organization has won in various competitions. The Society has won two of the cups offered by Dr. Patterson. For permanent ownership of one of these cups it is necessary to win the Annual Inter-Society debate three times in succession. The third trophy, however, was lost to New Mercer in 1927-28.

Membership in the organization is not held strictly to students. Several members of the faculty hold honorary memberships in the society. Dr. Homer C. House, Professor Charles S. Richardson, Professor George Schulz, Professor H. F. Cotterman and Professor F. N. Lemon. Others of the faculty who were at one time active members are H. C. (Curly) Byrd and Dr. L. B. Broughton.

During the year 1928-29 Poe Literary Society has continued to play an important part in campus activities. Meetings are held bi-monthly, and in addition to the usual programs, special features have been offered. Many outstanding literary men have presented quite entertaining addresses before the club. Among these speakers were Professor Cotterman, Professor Kramer and Congressman F. N. Zihlman.

The officers during the year 1928-29 are: President, Duncan Clark; Vice-President, Carl Everstine; Secretary, Grace Maxwell; Assistant Secretary, Evalyn Ridout; Treasurer, Chalmers Hughes; Critic, Barbara Schilling.

Student Grange

The Student Grange is one of the largest and most active organizations on the campus. This is a student agricultural fraternity composed of members chosen from the College of Agriculture and the coeds, and is a part of the large national fraternity of the National Grange of the Patrons of Husbandry.

The Student Grange was organized in 1915 and is one of the oldest and most prosperous societies of its kind in the country. At the National Convention held in Washington last fall the Student Grange of the University of Maryland was said to be the best, most progressive and most typical Student Grange in the organization. It has the distinction of being the only one managed entirely by students.

The major purpose of this organization is to train young men and women for leadership in rural communities. It also gives the students a direct touch with local and national farm problems. It is a medium through which the students can be brought into direct contact with the farmers of the State.

The meetings, which are held twice a month, are enlivened with business interests and very interesting programs, and are concluded with refreshments. The Grange sends degree teams and educational and entertaining programs out to the various chapters in the State.

At the National Grange Convention held in Washington last autumn the Maryland Student Grange gave several programs. Numerous members took the sixth and seventh degrees at that time.

The officers for this year were: Master, Stanley Stabler; Overseer, Merrick Wilson; Steward, William Cockerill; Secretary, Anna Price.

Y. M. C. A.

The Young Men's Christian Association was organized in the Spring of 1924 to fill the need of Christian influence on the campus. The "Y" at the University of Maryland is purely a student organization and operates independently. During the five years of its existence on the campus the "Y" has broadened a great deal and has a large enrollment of students who realize the benefits to be obtained from such an organization. It extends a welcome to every man student on the campus.

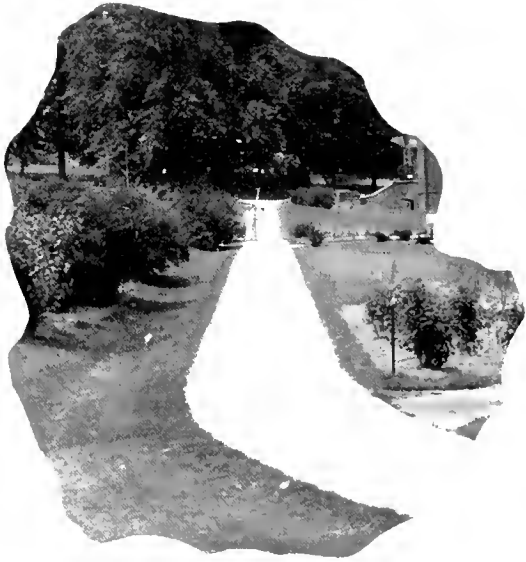

The fundamental policy of the "Y" is to promote good fellowship between those of different faiths. The "Y" really hopes to be a melting pot, where all differences are forgotten. The Association strives to further broadmindedness, racial understanding and international good will.

The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. work harmoniously together in their respective fields. On Sunday evenings they hold a joint discussion group when problems of vital interest are discussed frankly in order to arrive at the best Christian interpretation. The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. also publish jointly, each year, the University of Maryland Handbook. A copy of this book is presented to all students and faculty members at the beginning of each school year.

The "Y" sponsors and send representatives to various conferences during the year. These conferences give students an opportunity to visit other universities where they make numerous acquaintances, and develop a wide circle of friends.

Meetings are held twice a month in the "Y" rooms. They are enlivened with business, entertaining programs and speeches on both religious and other current questions.

The officers are: President, William La Marr; Vice-President, Gelston McNeil; Secretary, Thomas Hughes; Treasurer, Melvin Beachy.
